SINCE the discovery and introduction into this country thirty years ago of that most welcome freak of nature—the navel or “seedless” orange—man has been endeavoring to apply the principles governing its production to other seed fruits. In various parts of this country experiments have been carried on patiently and persistently year after year, and reports of an encouraging nature have been received by the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C. from time to time.

Mr. Luther Burbank, one of the largest fruit growers in California, is experimenting with a view to the development of the stoneless plum. In a recent report received from him by William A. Taylor, pomologist of the Department of Agriculture, Mr. Burbank announces that he has at last succeeded in producing several varieties of plums almost free from stones, although they still contain the seed. His report continues that the “navel” in the last crop is believed to have already been overcome and that when the experimental and navel grafted plum trees bear again, the fruit will be seedless and stoneless.

Within the past few days John F. Spencer, a veteran horticulturist and fruit grower at Glenwood Springs, Colo., succeeded in producing a seedless apple. This new fruit is the result of experiments extending over a quarter of a century and very much resembles the seedless orange in that the meat is solid and there is a slightly hard substance in the navel end. The trees have no blossoms, and for this reason no pollination is needed, and crops are large.

Spencer began experimenting with the apple shortly after the seedless orange was placed on the market. He reasoned that it was possible to destroy pollination in the orange it was possible to do it in the apple. Originally he produced five trees which would bear seedless apples, and next experimented to see if he could make the buds reproduce others.

Succeeding in this, he secured forty additional trees. From these he has budded two hundred more, and his seedless apple is now assured. Mr. Spencer has kept his experiments to himself for all these years, and now refuses to divulge his secret. He recently sent some of the apples to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington for examination. In addition to avoiding seeds, Mr. Spencer claims that many diseases which now follow the laying of eggs by moths in the apple blossoms will be avoided.

Other fruit growers have confined their experiments to the perfection of other fruits from which the seeds have been eliminated. Several examples of these have already been produced, especially grapes, of which there are now three or four seedless varieties, and the Sultan, the Thompson seedless, and the Zante raisins.

The Government is awaiting with great interest the result of experiments, which have only partly succeeded in Georgia, in producing a seedless watermelon. Numerous freaks of this kind in which an imperfect fruit has been yielded are reported to the Department of Agriculture every year. Some of them, such as the seedless orange, apple, plum, grape and watermelon are vastly superior to the normal product. For that reason fruit growers have been encouraged by the Government to develop various seedless fruits just as the navel orange was. The Department of Agriculture has been making a study of the seedless apple for about twelve years.

The first seedless oranges were undoubtedly freaks of nature. Their counterparts have never been found. In the summer of 1872 William E. Judson, United States Consul at Tabia, Brazil, heard an account from natives of a few trees in

"Not For The Whole German Empire!"

Cried the Crown Prince When Emperor William Told Him He Must Marry Princess Thyra of Denmark, and Forget All About Pretty Miss Deacon and the Other Girls Who Have Filled His Head.

Princess Thyra of Denmark.

In the Kaiser's will, greatly announced the Berlin Volks-Zeitung, that Crown Prince Frederick William, heir to the throne, shall wed the Princess Thyra, daughter of the Crown Princess of Denmark. But it remains to be seen what the Crown Prince will do.

The Princess Thyra is of royal blood, but she is three years Frederick's senior. The Princess is accomplished, but she is not beautiful. She is plain, sturdy, good-natured and frugal. Her best friends exclaim with enthusiasm, "She is so intelligent!"

An intelligent bride for the young man who made Europe ring with his admiration for ex-prince Gladys Deacon! A plain bride for one who has worshipped at the shrine of the lovely singer, Geraldine Farrar!

A good-natured, frugal bride for the royal heir, who has studied the music halls of every city of Europe in order to pay court to the loveliest of them all! A sturdy bride for the Hohenzollern who, to worship at the shrine of beautiful women, has suffered exile, imprisonment, disgrace.

"Not for the whole German Empire will I marry her!" the young Crown Prince screamed.

"Be silent, sir!" commanded Emperor William. "It is my royal will."

"Your 'royal will' shall not harp on my heart to a woman I do not love!" shouted the Crown Prince in defiance.

After this first violent explosion of indignation the heir to the German crown became calmer. It was hopeless, his advisers told him, to resist the iron will of his father. They pointed out to him that open defiance at this time would strengthen the determination of the Emperor and bring about most unpleasant complications. To yield or at least to seem to yield to the royal will was the best diplomacy.

"Remember," said one of the young man's shrewdest counselors, "the Emperor is not a well man; you owe him every consideration at this time. He may not long be spared to you. And, with clever emphasis, 'If a great fortune should overtake our dear Emperor you will be free to reconsider your betrothal.'"

"It is as you say," the Crown Prince replied, thoughtfully. "I shall visit Copenhagen, I shall ask for time to consider, but I shall not refuse—but I shall never marry her!"

The Crown Prince is twenty-two. "High time—high time!" say all the courtiers and diplomats.

A marriage with the Princess Thyra would set at rest the strained relations that arose between Germany and Denmark after the annexation of Schleswig-Holstein. Even the Crown Prince's great uncle, King Edward of England, is said to be pleased to give his royal sanction to the match.

Whatever may be Emperor William's attitude toward the women he has selected for the drinking house in which he was victorious, Prince German impresses the great German with a frugal, sturdy, good-natured and frugal. Her best friends exclaim with enthusiasm, "She is so intelligent!"

For some time after this episode the young Prince remained a prisoner in his father's Potsdam Palace, awaiting on suffer of great and serious. His own palace remained closed, a silent testimony to the laws of the Hohenzollern obligation, acquired nominal possession of $300,000 a year left him by the late Duke of Brunswick, and ample pay from his different positions in the army and navy, to which he is entitled by rank and favor. The possession was purely nominal, his expenses were closely scrutinized.

Having won freedom from the Kaiser's regulation, however, he started off again to make up for his long feast of grol, hounds had really made him quite ill, and it was thought that a change would do him good.

The first attempted conflict between the Kaiser and his heir took place then. "I have invited down a number of my friends to stay with me at my own palace," said the Prince, "I must go to meet them."

"You are a prisoner!" declared the Kaiser. "But I am of age," protested the young man.

"You are my subject," cried the Kaiser. And the young Prince's guests, a choice collection of rakes and music hall favorites, were met by a lieutenant of the police, in the midst of an obnoxious court-martial.

"Defendants and judges," he said, bowing the made away with ten stout bottles of low, "the chief of the royal police has the champagne at a state dinner. The young Prince tried to smuggle him. As a result order you cannot remain in Potsdam, must take the next train home."

eyes that are like wood violets and pale blue hair.

Also, poor Princess Thyra of Denmark—one favorite to mention that Miss Deacon is intelligent.

Day after day the young Prince feasted his eyes upon the lovely American's beauty. Love enticed him in such a wise that he could not disguise it. When it was at its height the Kaiser commanded his son's return to Berlin.

There was nothing for it but to obey. He returned to his father's palace, and the next morning at breakfast occurred a scene that will go down in the pages of history.

On the little finger of his right hand he had worn since his confirmation day a ring presented to him by his grandmother, the Empress Frederick, which it was understood that he was only to part with to his wife. The quick eyes of his food mother had noted its absence.

"My son," she cried, pointing to his hand, "and then the young man blurted out his love story. He was in love, at last, seriously, absolutely, forever! His throne—Then the thunder broke.

"Not for the whole German Empire!" cried the Crown Prince, when Emperor William told him it was high time for him to marry. And that he must marry the Princess Thyra of Denmark and forget about pretty Miss Deacon and the other girls who have filled his head.

He would relinquish the throne. Miss Deacon was worth it. He would take her to Berlin, away from the crown lands and palace, and there they would live as Duke and Duchess of Brunswick!

Imagining the sweetest The Kaiser raged, and the Kaiser's son defied him. Most while the Kaiser's emissaries were already at work. The ring must be returned, Miss Deacon was charming. WHAT A FASHIONABLE THIEF'S WIFE HAD TO DO

THE narrative on this page of Mrs. Wallace H. Ham is really a great tribute to American womanhood. It is told simply and with dignity of a woman who, accustomed to all the luxuries that money can buy, suddenly is confronted by the fact that the money she has been enjoying from her husband does not belong to her, but has been perverted from others. What does she do? She makes up her mind that she will go out and literally earn her own bread by the sweat of her brow. She gives up her horses, her carriages and all her luxuries and keeps only for herself and little bit of a three-room cottage on the edge of her country place and starts in with great determination and great pluck to raising hens, to milking cows and to tending her eggs and with courage all through the Massachusetts milk routes as far as Boston is from Needham to satisfy her own necessary wants and make good the family debt to honor.

How the Wife of Wallace H. Ham, the Boston Embezzler, Has Given Up Her Jewels, City Residence and Luxurious Life and Is Milking the Cows and Running a Dairy on the Country Estate Where, Two Months Ago, She Was the Fashionable Mistress.

THROUGH the streets of Boston and as from St. Paul's Church funds and St. Brookline, in Massachusetts, with Lila's Home for Convalescents, at which Mrs. Ham is now residing which her husband was treasurer.

MILK AND CREAM.
So commonplace a thing would not be the heroism of his devoted and beautiful wife, according to her for the fact that this wife marks the second chapter in one of the most dramatic episodes from riches to sudden poverty that society in this country has seen.

From being noted as one of the handsomest women in fashionable society, patronizing the most exclusive of clubs, and being the belle of the ball, she has become a milkmaid and a dairy woman, running a country house at Needham, twelve miles from Boston, and milking cows and tending her chickens.

From giving dairy afternoon teas and elaborate dinners to her husband's friends, she has become a milkmaid and a dairy woman, running a country house at Needham, twelve miles from Boston, and milking cows and tending her chickens.

From being the central figure at charity bazaar, where as a "power" at the tea tables she was the most admired of all the wealthy patronesses of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, to going about in calico went out to live on her Needham dairy farm, she has become a milkmaid and a dairy woman, running a country house at Needham, twelve miles from Boston, and milking cows and tending her chickens.

It was there that she had met Wallace H. Ham, the Boston financier, ten years ago when he was on a summer vacation at the height of his prosperity, with all the luxuries it gave.

She was a widow of twenty-five then. Mrs. John A. Brown, with a little son, three years old. Before her first marriage she was Miss Margaret Foster.

The young widow was strikingly beautiful. She was tall, a blonde of the richest type with exquisite coloring.

Wallace Ham married her and brought her to Brookline to reside over a newly appointed home at No. 139 Winchester street.

Mrs. Ham at once showed herself equal to all the excursions which a woman of fashionable life. Her natural grace and sweetness of disposition soon made her a general favorite in society, while her beauty fascinated it.

There was no more laughing sight upon the Brookline suburban roads, which were noted for their fine equipages, than handsome, dashing Mrs. Ham driving one of her spirited bachelors.

That was the idyllic period of Mrs. Ham's life. Never a thought entered her mind that the means for providing these luxuries was obtained by her husband by an improper method.

Not, indeed, did the Ham family of being even extravagant to their neighbors. As households go in fashionable Brookline, the Ham place was very impressive. Just a comfortable country house, with

Be Careful of the "Telephone Ear."

THE influence of environment in the evolution of speech, as the whole of the expression it has a popular illustration in "the telephone ear."

When we are at the height of the voice, the man and woman use not but the anxious unyielding rigidity of future looks of a sterner glaze to the eyes.

It will be found that on extraneous use of the telephone sharpens the ear at the expense of the sight. It is a great disadvantage to the telephone ear.

EVERY schoolboy in America who loves outdoor sports—and his name is legion—will read this page with unbounded delight. It concerns him and is particularly so inasmuch as it is his chance to win.

In a nutshell, on July 4, 5 and 6 of this year, the first annual athletic contests in a public school championship series are to be held in the magnificent new stadium erected on the World's Fair grounds at St. Louis.

The official programme of events arranged to take place on those three days is given herewith. These events are open to all good boys in the elementary and high schools of this country and Canada.

Every contestant will receive a handsome bronze medal, no matter whether he is a successful competitor for any of the other magnificent trophies or not. These other trophies and one great prize—the Intercity trophy—will be well worth striving for. They have been pronounced the most elaborate and handsome prizes ever offered in an athletic competition.

Apart from the attractive features of the tournament, the games will mark the inauguration of the Public Schools Athletic League of North America—an organization for the promotion and encouragement of athletic sports in connection with the public schools. This League will arrange for similar games to be held annually hereafter. The most important feature of these annual games will be the contest for the big Intercity trophy, to be competed for on July 4 of each successive year in the city of the team which last won it.

The great success of the first annual meeting of the Public Schools Athletic League of New York, held in Madison Square Garden, New York City, on Saturday, December 26 of last year, paved the way for the forthcoming schoolboy athletic tournament at St. Louis. At Madison Square Garden fifteen hundred and twenty-two boys competing in the presence of over ten thousand spectators. The prizes and other trophies won at that memorable athletic carnival had been provided by Hon. William Randolph Hearst.

From Madison Square to the St. Louis Stadium, from an evening of sports to a three-day athletic tournament, and from a purely local competition to one embracing every large city in North America, is a very big jump, but it has been successfully undertaken.

All the trophies and medals are presented by the generosity of Hon. William Randolph Hearst. A partial list of them follows: One trophy for permanent competition between the Public Schools, Elementary and High, of the United States and Canada. This great Intercity trophy will be awarded to the team carrying off the all-around championship honors.

Gold medals to the winners in each event, silver to the second, and bronze to the third.

Trophy for High School Basketball Championship. Gold medals to members of the team.

Trophy for Elementary School Basketball Championship. Gold medals to members of the team.

Three trophies for High School relay race, gold, silver and bronze medals for members of first, second and third teams.

Three trophies for Elementary School relay race, gold, silver and bronze medals for members of first, second and third teams.

There will be similar gold, silver and bronze prizes awarded in the consolation races.

A special commemorative medal will be given to each one who actually competes or serves as an official.

Each person entering must fulfil the following conditions: He must be a student carrying full work in a regular course. His present grade of scholarship must be such as to entitle him to admission on graduation.

He must be under sixteen years of age for High School events and under fifteen years of age for Elementary School events.

He must have been enrolled in the school that he is to represent before March 1, 1904.

He must be in good standing in the school, i. e., not under discipline.

He must be an amateur.

An entry fee of fifty cents for each event will be charged. The right to reject any entry is reserved. No entry will be received unless it is accompanied by a certificate from the principal of the school certifying to the scholarship and eligibility of the athlete.

Entries close with James E. Sullivan, Chief of the Department of Physical Culture, Universal Exposition, St. Louis, Mo., June 1, 1904.

By JAMES E. SULLIVAN, Secretary of the American Athletic Union and Chief of the Department of Physical Culture, St. Louis World's Fair.

FOR the first time since July 4 became the glorious Fourth it will this year have a doubly glorious significance. It will be the day when the first national series of public school athletic contests ever held.

I cannot speak too highly of the public spirited generosity of the Hon. William Randolph Hearst, in making possible the holding of this great athletic tournament for our schoolboys.

He has given a series of handsome trophies and team prizes to be competed for. The greatest and most magnificent of these is to be known as the Hearst Intercity trophy, and it is to be awarded to the team carrying off the all-around championship honors. This trophy will be composed of annually heretofore by rival school teams from various American cities. Proud indeed will be the team of boys that win it.

In addition to these trophies Mr. Hearst has provided very handsome bronze medals for all the contestants, and each schoolboy who competes in any of the events during the three days' series of games will receive one of these.

It is to be hoped that the boys of the United States and Canada will take advantage of this opportunity to show their prowess in the various athletic contests.

The contests close on June 1, so there is not time to lose. Boys can enter individually or they may be selected as members of the teams representing the various cities that will compete for the Intercity trophy.

How to train scientifically for any athletic contest is a matter which the average schoolboy may not know much about. To engage the services of a professional trainer would be impossible, except in a few isolated cases. I suppose, and so it will be the third Olympic Games, that the young men may read, study and derive the greatest possible benefit from them between now and the opening of the World's Fair games on July 4.

These public school championship events will be an important part of the Olympic games of 1904, to be held in conjunction with the World's Fair. As a whole these Olympic games will constitute the greatest Olympiad that has ever been held in the world's history.

Mr. W. was thought for the best interests of America that all interested in this year be centered in and about St. Louis, and as a result the games were transferred to that city. And if the present plans for the 1904 Olympic games are carried out, the Olympic games of 1904 will long be remembered. America will set a standard that will be hard for other countries to follow, and the 1904 Olympic games will be a great success. It is hoped that all kinds that encourage athletics, physical training, outdoor sports and pastimes have joined toward making the Olympic

The blouse was pieced into a belt under a pointed draped girdle, which fastens in the back. The shoulder straps are wide and effective. It includes a cape around the back which runs in front of the arm in three cape folds around the top of the sleeve. From the front of the neck to the armhole in front the cape is not away and this edge is trimmed with three embroidered daisies, each supporting an embroidered 'capucine' point. The full open sleeve is finished at the sleeve with three overlapping folds, having unembroidered points applied on an edge to the upper edge with the tips up in the sleeve. A fitted mouseline underwaist is finished with a deep fitted embroidered wristband.

In the evening, when one sees all the light tints of color in Paris, the all-white dress appears as smart as the rest, and the young girls, with their hair in curls and young girls. The charming new gowns of white tulle, trimmed with ruching, have quite the effect of simple elegance and gentle beauty.

Costume of Extreme Distinction

All the shades of gray—especially the paler tints that merge into off-shades of white—are in vogue in Paris, and Figure B shows a handsome dress of liberty silk in a shade of gray that is neither parti nor silver, but a happy blending of both. It opens over an apron of flim white that ends in a deep lace flounce, headed by a wide band of shirring which is on a light blue ground. The skirt is of a light blue. Two similar bands of shirring are worn around the skirt. A plain white flounce falls below the lace one, and a flounce trims the lower part of the skirt, dragging is made to fit over the blouse by means of several rows of shirring. A short piece above the blouse, the shirring is repeated, heading the deep square, and below the shirring four embroidered oval medallions—the kind known as Capucine points—hang over the blouse. The blouse is decorated with a row of small embroidered flowers at the bottom, and bands upon the floor in front for four or five inches. The skirt is made of a light-colored material, a moderate pleated giraffe, which fastens in the back. The shoulder arrangement is new and effective. It is a fact that the submarine is a most dangerous weapon of war, and that it is a most dangerous weapon of peace.

Schub is stationed on the torpedo boat "Hedgehog" at Newport. The experiment that he proposes is to show that a crew can escape from a torpedo boat without loss of life. The torpedo boat will be struck by a passing ship and will be sunk. The crew, however, will be propelled by air into the water. Schub is hoping to prove that the loss of life is unnecessary when little boats are wrecked.

Driving Them Under The Yoke

Will the Real Democratic People, the Independent Backbone of the Nation, Consent to Take on the Yoke so Long Borne by the Republican Party?

THE picture on this page is sketched and adapted from a famous painting, showing victory of the Helvetians over the Romans.

The idea was to humiliate as thoroughly as possible the Roman soldiers whose independence had always been their pride. An excellent method was adopted—an ordinary ox yoke was held, and the prisoners, with arms bound, were compelled to march under this yoke, two by two, as a sign of submission to the power that had overcome them.

There is no doubt whatever that in the coming National election the trusts think that they see an opportunity to add to their assets the Democratic party, and Democratic party leaders.

The plan of the trusts is to get control of both great parties, that their employees and obedient tools may be in office, no matter which side wins the election.

As a matter of fact, if the trusts had their choice, if they could name the candidates, and could compel the Democratic party to accept as leaders discredited traitors and party runaways, THEY WOULD HAVE ESTABLISHED A POLITICAL MERGER OR HOLDING COMPANY CONTROLLING BOTH PARTIES.

They would thus eliminate independent political action as they have eliminated competition in industry.

The only hope of the Democratic traitors is in the trusts. Their only hope of power comes from the money that the trusts will give them; upon the vote-buying power, the organizing power of the trust bank account, being absolutely dependent on the trusts for their standing in ANY POLITICAL PARTY, the discredited Democrats will be in the hands of the trusts more pliant, servile and willing even than the Republican machine managers.

The question is:
WILL THE BODY OF DEMOCRATIC VOTERS THROUGH-OUT THE COUNTRY PERMIT THEMSELVES TO BE DE-LIVERED TO THE TRUSTS BY THESE PSEUDO-DEMOCRATIC

Or will they prove in this year's nominating and voting that the Democratic party is going to keep its character, is going to Already there are signs that the discredited trust Democrats, so long out of their party, feel confidence and hope.

We have seen one after another emerging from a stony lethargy to tell the Democrats what kind of a National platform HE wants and what sort of a candidate the Democrats want.

We have seen August Belmont, the little Wall Street Speculator, the Rothschild Clerk, the Race Track Man, telling the people of this country and their Senators the kind of platform HE wants, and what man HE wants to have nominated at St. Louis.

Why, there are small bookmakers following the odds at Mr. Belmont's race track, whose advice would be less offensive to real Democrats than that of August Belmont. Those men, at least, may have voted for the Democratic ticket, even if they could not lead very admirable lives.

And then there is David B. Hill. He is another of the fair weather Democrats, another of the Democrats who consider that the Democratic voter should be delivered by the treacherous Democratic boss to the real plutocratic Government of the country. Mr. Hill, whose recent record consists in bolting his party twice in succession and wrecking the hopes of the Gubernatorial candidate through his own personal unpopularity, thinks that HE should pick out the Democratic candidate.

He actually thinks that HIS endorsement is of value, when as a matter of fact it is the most serious handicap in the opinion of every real Democrat in the country.

These and other men of the Hill-Beimont type imagine that they are to have the pleasure of holding the yoke for the plutocrats

... control their votes

The ordinary citizen does not realize the vital importance of the choosing of delegates. And it is possible for him to wake up too late and find that while he was waiting for the time to vote the Belmont-Hill trust estate has succeeded in obtaining complete control of the Democratic organization.

Of course, it would be impossible to elect a man handicapped by the approval of such men as Hill and Belmont.

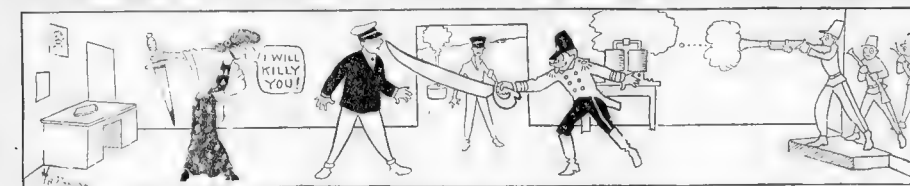

Every candidate who appreciates the honor and responsibility of representing the real Democrats of the nation, and the duty of securing a Democratic victory should repudiate the Hill-Belmont syndicate and leave them to take shelter in the Republican party where they belong.

The election of the Democratic candidate, however, does not worry the trusts.

ALL THEY WANT IS TO BE SURE THAT NO PERSON DANGEROUS TO THEIR PRIVILEGES WILL BE NOMINATED. If they can manage to put their employees in charge of the National campaign machine they will be permanent and absolutely safe. They will be sure of an indefinite number of Republican victories, and the Democratic party will dwindle down to the low estate of a sort of political verminiform appendix, important or dangerous only in case of violent inflammation.

It is the duty of the Democratic party to realize keenly the meaning of this movement of the trusts. It is the duty of Democrats to rid themselves, once and for all, of the Belmont-Hill syndicate of traitors and time-servers, AND MAKE THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY TRULY AND PURELY DEMOCRATIC.

Augustus Thomas, George Ade and Alford Henry are the American humorists who have been most successful in this country.

Why French Farces Fail Here.

We have had Parisian farces thrust upon our throats until we have suffered from mental tonitis. Because we are so used to the French farces, we use itself with thrills of conjugal infidelity, a frustrated Seventh Commandment, and a broken heart. In this country are reserved for the smoking room, literary managers have realized that we are too much cackled at them.

and every nation builds up its own humor. Sometimes foreign humor is better than ours, but when it approaches the American idea, its topics are not too emphatically "insular." Sometimes American humor is better than theirs, but when it seems to reach out beyond the coast line, humor is a pretty simple conclusion. It is a conclusion that we do not realize of superiority or inferiority. But the American who is a humorist is a person who is of his own country, well—he isn't, but he is. Americans have a chance to sample humor in its best quality—humor that is not for people who are not interested. New York's humor is a sign-made fare that has their day as far as an American consumption is concerned. They are not "superior" in the sense that they would be rudely surprised to find that there are people who are "superior" in the sense that they are not for this nation. And that is one thing that is a good thing to please, and this first.

And wins immen-
sity upon the newly planted sea—
Heav, pumpkin, morning glory, sweet
Alyssum, corn,
Squash, rue and beet.

And this is why
The nymphs sigh
And grieve as they move along.
While yonder fat
Ancora rail
Discourages Mendelssohn's Spring song.

From Harshoon

From New Paw to Mauncheunk.

"The wherewithal cancels the harness."

 S on our head
 and while you shed
 The "porous" that in fee you held
 And twirl and trip
 And swim artfully
 Across the mead of twinkling gold.
 While in the hole
 The bluebirds shout—
 The thrushcar cave
 Is down and out.

 And let us throw
 Autumn, arrow,
 A Bumpkin on the breezy slope,
 I'll hit our jogs,
 Like painted toys,
 A fave's garden landscape.
 And make us sing,
 Hip-hip, hooray,
 For dear old Spring,
 That's here to stay.

"Babes In Toyland" Extravaganza Opens in Boston Theatre Tomorrow--Weber & Fields Coming to Globe.

"BABES IN TOYLAND," the latest production of Messrs. Hickey and Nichol, comes to the Boston Theatre tomorrow night for an extended engagement. It is an operatic extravaganza, acted by Victor Herbert, and book by Glen MacDonough, and is to be one of the most beautiful spectacles the stage has ever seen. It has been running in New York all the season, and has been very highly praised.

The plot of "Babes in Toyland" revolves around the babes, who are also played by orders of a wicked uncle in the heart of a forest filled with gnomes, goblins, and all manner of weird creatures, from whom they are rescued by the mother queen. Their wanderings take them next into the mystic realm of Toyland, who is ruled by the master toy-makers.

All dolls and automata are human to everything except the possession of a soul, and to give these figures a spirit is the mission of the aid of incantations by the aid of the spirits in the dolls. The "Babes in Toyland" is a very amusing and entertaining play, and is a very beautiful spectacle. The play is a comedy in three acts, and is a very amusing characterization of an Irishman.

WHEN YOU THINK OF A BLOOD PURIFIER
THINK OF SSS

The Most Popular and Widely-Known Blood Purifier
GUARANTEED PURELY VEGETABLE

This is the season that tests the quality of your blood, and if it is not good, then evidences of it will begin to show as the weather grows warmer. Carbuncles and boils, pimples and blotches, and numerous itching and burning skin eruptions will make their appearance, and are sure indications of bad blood. If spring-time finds you with impure, sickly blood, then you are in poor condition to withstand the strain upon the system which always comes at this time of the year. A failure to look after your physical welfare now, by purifying the blood and toning up the general system, may result in a complete breaking down of health later on, and you will find yourself weak and run down, with no appetite, and a prey to indigestion and nervousness. It is poor blood that makes weak bodies, for it is this vital fluid that must supply vigor and strength to our systems, and upon its purity rests our chances for health. Any impurity, humor or poison in the blood acts injuriously upon the system and affects the general health. It is due to the morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood that chronic sores and ulcers are developed, and that the eruptions of the skin, so common during spring and summer, show the blood to be in a riotous, feverish condition, as if it were too much acid or the presence of some irritating humor or acid poison in the blood. A large per cent of human ailments have their origin in a polluted, diseased blood, and can only be reached by a remedy that goes into the circulation and uproots and expels the poison and restores the blood to a healthy, natural condition. If you have any symptoms of bad blood, and

Springfield, Ohio, May 15, 1903.

On two occasions I have used your S. S. S. and have been so greatly and heartily recommended it as a tonic and blood purifier, that I have purchased a bottle of the same. I have had headache, indigestion and liver trouble, and my blood has appeared under the use of a few bottles of your S. S. S. My appetite, which was poor, has improved, and I feel much better. I want now without fear of indigestion, to take a course of your S. S. S. to cleanse of impurities and make rich and healthy my blood. I feel that your blood purifier is all you claim for it.

MRS. CLORINE WIEGEL.

771 E. 2d St.

I am a blood purifier, and have used your S. S. S. this spring, and found it to be a blood purifier of the best kind. I have been a sufferer from rheumatism, and my joints ached and pained me so much, that I was unable to do any of my usual work. I went to be laid up with Rheumatism. I was told that I should take S. S. S. It was so; so I purchased a bottle of it, and I feel that the blood has been cleansed and renewed. My joints are now free from pain, and I feel that I am a blood purifier. I feel that your S. S. S. is a blood purifier of the best kind. I feel that your S. S. S. is a blood purifier of the best kind. I feel that your S. S. S. is a blood purifier of the best kind.

composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, selected for their medicinal properties and gathered from nature's store-houses—the fields and forests. The thousands who have used S.S.S. will know from experience what it will do in blood troubles, do not need to be reminded of a blood purifier, and you will better call it a blood tonic. S.S.S. If you are thinking of a blood purifier, think of S.S.S. which has been sold for nearly fifty years, while the demand is greater now than ever in its history. No remedy without merit could exist so long and retain the confidence of the people. Write us if in need of medical advice, which is given without charge.
